

New Jersey has developed an effective do not call list that should not be overturned. The state should be allowed to protect the interests of its residents.